Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 17 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A sunny morning, then turning cloudy. Showers in the west.

Today:
A mostly dry day, though a few showers are likely in Cornwall and northern Devon. Most areas will receive sunny spells in the morning before cloud arrives from the north during the afternoon. Light winds. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
The chance of showers in the west continues overnight, spreading over to Bristol before dawn. Winds remain light and cloud will break up for a time during the early hours. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
A few morning showers are likely before outbreaks of rain move in from the west around midday, becoming heavier by the evening. Staying cloudy all day and winds strengthening later. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Tuesday and Wednesday will see further heavy rain, with strong winds, especially along coasts. Scattered showers and sunny spells on Thursday, with strong winds in the east early on.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.